

Kafui Adjaye-Gbewonyo is a Postdoctoral Research Fellow with the Innovative Methods and Metrics for Agriculture and Nutrition Action (IMMANA) program. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Science and Public Policy and a Master of Science and Doctor of Science in Public Health from Harvard University. Her research interests are in social epidemiology, global population health, and quantitative methods. She is particularly interested in the effects of social and contextual factors on health in African countries. Her work has been published in journals such as Health & Place and Social Science & Medicine.